STAT

2. ([redacted]) Mr. Knapp, Personnel, called to report that he had received a call from General Hershey's office in Selective Service in connection with the case of [redacted] (This is the individual whom John Buckley in Representative Dale R. Pascall's office asked us to assist in obtaining a six month draft deferment. See Journal of 18 December.) Knapp indicated that Selective Service seemed to have the impression that we were trying to support [redacted] in his request for a deferralment. He said the local draft board had already given [redacted] a short deferralment because of financial hardship but had become rather provoked when they learned that during the period of the deferralment, [redacted] spent a rather large sum of money to purchase a new automobile. I informed Knapp of my conversation with WH Division and Buckley on this and added that the Agency did not feel that it could, in any way, support a request for this individual's deferralment.
